WHEAT SHARPLY LOWER ON FOREIGN ADVICES.

GENERAL TONE OF MARKET IS WEAK.

Corn Follows Wheat on Downturn, and Sentiment Is Bearish.

Grain values were sharply on the downturn in Saturday's market. There seemed to be no imminence of a breach between England and Russia, and domestic conions were so bearish that most of the igs were enger to/ease their lines over lay. Cables came lower and British were on the upturn, Local and ary receipts were fairly large and orn also was a decline in the cash demand.

COTTON MARKET HOLDS UP DESPITE UNFAVORABLE NEWS.

UNDERLYING BULLISH SEN-TIMENT HAS ITS EFFECT.

Crop Now Beyond Point Where Weather Can Affect Outcome to Appreciable Extent.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, Oct. 29 .- Most of the cotton news at hand this morning was of an unfavorable character, but, in spite of this, there was a steady opening here and a well-held market, owing possibly to the ndications of lighter receipts.

Another factor that seemed to have a sentimental effect at least was the undersent itself in the arguments of most of the Another point is that the crop has now got beyond a point where the weather will materially affect the outcome, while on the other hand seasonable weather, which may well be expected at this sea-son, is calculated to give picking operations uninterrupted sway.

Toward the close the market steadled on local coverings. The soot cotton market was 5 points higher, with middling uplands quoted at 10 cents.

CONFIDENCE AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, Oct. 29 .- The Times-Domorat in its summary of the cotton situation will say to-morrow:
"Yesterday's cotton market, while nar-tion will say to-morrow:

"Yesterday's cotton market, while narrow and unimportant, evidenced on the part of the talent a very marked degree of confidence in the price. For receipts are not yet failing off, and port stocks are growing every day, with a weather map and forecast decidedly favorable to the bear side. But these powerful influences were more than offset by the more optimistic feeling with regard to the outcome of the Russian-English complications, the good showing made by Secretary Hester's report of the spinners' taking and by the quality of backtone displayed by the spot market.

"All during the short session the wholesome undertone was just a little too much for the bears. The gain since Monday of something more than a dollar a bale on contracts, notwithstanding the fact that nearly every tangible influence has been against the price, indicates clearly enough what may be expected when the bulls, and not the bears shall have the bulls of each day's news on their side.

"A slump in the movement cannot now be far distant. European peace is already assured, and everything points to the early resumption of the now idle mills. It has been a long time since the market has felt the effect of concerted support. There are some very wise bulls who have been very quiet of late. These men are agreed that the price is low enough and that the chances for a simm pare slim indeed. Even the bears act as though they are satisfied with the present level of values. Therefore the question, what are the bulls waiting for?

"Seemingly, the bears have used up most of their bir wins. But the energy is still of their bir wins. But the energy is still of their bir wins. But the energy is still of their bir wins. But the energy is still of their bir wins. But the energy is still of their bir wins. But the energy is still of their bir wins.

"Seemingly, the bears have used up most of their ammunition and have fired all of their big guns. But the enemy is still comfortably intrenched above the $\frac{1}{2}\circ$-cent mark. To-day there are few men in the trade who do not believe that a powerful bull leader could wake the spinner out of his dream of plenty, and as the movement declines start values mounting in the old-time way.
"But the season is yet young and there is plenty of time ahead for the fireworks should the bulls start a star roping contest later on."
